In urging lowering of the tariff barriers, and the admission of a larger quantity of foreign competitive goods to the displacement of that amount of goods turned out by American capital and labor, leaders of the United States Chamber of Commerce voice well-known demands of big business—that is internationalizing manufacturing and banking.

Certain branches of big business would profit by this proceeding. International banking would be promoted. The big manufacturing concerns which have branched out abroad not only with selling agencies but in the erection of plants, would be helped. American independent enterprise and labor, would of course be harmed. We live in an age when demands for legislation are made by powerful groups with regard entirely to their own profit and with little or no concern for the general welfare of the American people.

The consuming power of Europe is one-fourth per capita that of the United States. That of Asia is one-tenth. The average consuming power of the entire world outside the United States is probably not more than one-sixth per capita that of the United States. Moreover in the rest of the world, especially in Europe, mass production has been established with wages no higher than before the World war, hence, with no increase in consuming power. In the United States wages have risen more than one-half since before the World war, with consequent increase in consuming power. The claim that under such circumstances the United States stands to gain by yielding its markets to competitors wielding a weapon of cheapness secured through the low wage system, in order that we may take the chance of gaining larger sales in foreign markets increasingly glutted with goods because consuming power falls far short of keeping up with productive capacity, has no weight if applied to the general welfare of American industry or the American people.

Big business ought to begin to learn the folly of seeking its own ends without regard to the welfare of the American people. Its demands for low tariffs or no tariffs in order that its foreign adventures may be prospered has already created widespread distress in certain industries, notably the oil and lumber industries, and this depression and unemployment has cost these same big interests billions where its foreign enterprises have yielded only millions. The seventeen and a half billions American capitalists have invested for quick profits at great risk abroad, are of small consequence as compared with the remaining 95 per cent of American wealth. The 95 per cent should not be sacrificed for the 5 per cent.

Lowering of the American tariff, and the admission of larger quantities of foreign goods, would not lower a for-

John W. Lancaster, one of Campbell's old settlers, passed away Thursday, May 28, at his home on Central avenue. He was 72 year of age and had been in good health until late last summer, when he was confined to his bed, where he remained until his death.

John Lancaster was a native of Kentucky, and after his marriage to Miss Elizabeth Fore, he moved to Kansas where they lived for some time. In 1894 they moved to Campbell where they have lived ever since. He was a bricklayer and plasterer by trade and also an orchardist. He was an active member of the Morning Light lodge, I. O. O. F.

Services were held Friday at the Curry & Gripenstraw funeral parlors, with Campbell Odd Fellows all present and conducting the service. Two songs were sung followed by the reading of Lancaster's life history by Roy Mathis, noble grand. Interment was made in the Los Gatos cemetery with Hugo Bloom conducted the graveside rites.

Surviving him are his widow, Elizabeth Lancaster, and five sons, Sidney, Gus, Leland, Loyal and Harold, and a brother who resides in Texas.

G. Ninnis Buried At Oak Hill Monday

George T. Ninnis, until six months ago a resident of Campbell, passed away Saturday, May 30, at the home of his son, George, in San Jose. Mr. Ninnis had been ill only a short time.

The deceased was a native of England, but had spent 60 of his 75 years in this country. He and his wife had resided here for a considerable time, selling their home here just recently.

Mr. Ninnis was a very active member of the Campbell Methodist church.

Funeral services were held Monday at 2 o'clock from the parlors of Curry & Gripenstraw. Interment was made in the Oak Hill cemetery.

Deceased is survived by his widow, Agnes Ninnis, and a son, George, of San Jose.

foreign tariff or create a market for a dollar's worth of American products in foreign lands. What it would do would be to stimulate American investments in cheap labor markets abroad, to increase the glut of goods for which there can be no outlet there until consuming power is increased through better pay for workers. The present big drive for lowering of the tariff, which big business is carrying on through the metropolitan press, is intended to promote the profits of a few big bankers and industrialists at the sacrifice of the producing and consuming power of the United States.

Here They Come

Country Woman's Club Picnic Ends
1930-31 Season

About a score of the members of the Country Woman's club motored over to Ben Lomond Monday to the beautiful mountain home of Mr. and Mrs. Warren Shelley, where they had been invited to enjoy their annual picnic.

The setting and arrangements were ideal and a more perfect spot for the event could not have been found. The terraced gardens, fern covered rockery bordering the pools and miniature falls are at their loveliest and the magnificent pictures abounding on all sides were a constant source of pleasure with the passing of the hours and the changing lights and shades.

Upon rising from the bounteous tables, the last regular business meeting of the club year 1930-31 was held with President Mrs. Purmort presiding. The new club programs for next years work were distributed and received many compliments.

Having studied our Latin American neighbors to the south of us this year, next season's interest will be centered upon Canada.

The remainder of the afternoon was pleasantly passed and the hour for return arrived all too quickly.

Most of the ladies came home with plants from the hostess' "nursery" as souvenirs of a happy day.

High School Closed
This Afternoon For
C. Vaughan Funeral

Charles Vaughan, son of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Vaughan of Willow Glen and sophomore class member of the Campbell high school was instantly killed Saturday night when he was struck by an automobile while bicycling with two companions on the highway near Watsonville.

The young men were riding single file, with Charles bringing up the rear, so he took the full impact of the blow. His companions were knocked from their wheels, sustaining minor injuries. Bissett, driver of the automobile which struck the lads, took them to the hospital and reported the accident to the police.

Funeral services were held this afternoon, with interment at the Oak Hill cemetery. The high school closed at 12:45 to enable many of the students and faculty to attend the services in San Jose. Charles, who was an exceptionally popular student, is survived by his parents and a brother, who is a senior at the local school.

The C. S. Monitor

Although volumes have been written on prohibition there is an angle which continues to hold popular interest and that is its relation to women.

The World's Women's Christian Temperance union convention will be held in Toronto, Ontario, from June 4 to June 10. Concurrently, a series of eight articles will appear in the Christian Science Monitor, entitled "Women and Prohibition," by Zita Louise Baker, former member of the research staff of the United States department of justice. Grangers Observe
"Prune Night" At Recent Meeting

"Prune Night" was celebrated at the regular meeting of the Orchard City Grange last Tuesday evening at the I. O. O. F. hall. W. H. Woodbury, worthy master, presided over the brief business session which preceded the lecture hour in charge of Jessie McChesney.

A short comedy was presented by members of the organization during the lecture hour. W. R. Coupland took the part of the California prune grower and Harry Mitchell played the part of the critical buyer from New York. Fifteen ladies were made up as different grades of prunes. The skit was very amusing and thoroughly enjoyed by the audience.

Frank Abernathy of Saratoga, president of the State Prune Growers Protective league, gave an interesting talk on his experiences in handling prunes. C. D. Calalario, president of the Prune and Apricot Growers association, also gave a brief talk.

Mrs. Horace Keesling, secretary, gave a report on the activities of the Ladies Auxiliary. She also announced that the auxiliary will hold a bazaar the first Saturday in November and that already work has begun on the arrangements, with all committees selected.

A social hour and refreshments were enjoyed in the banquet room after the meeting.

Supreme Court Bars Reservations to Oath of Allegiance—Economy Plans for Post Office Department Are Announced.

By EDWARD W. PICKARD

Justice Sutherland

FIVE justices of the United States Supreme court have ruled in the case of Prof. Douglas C. Macintosh of the Yale divinity school, that a foreigner who seeks American citizenship must take the oath with no reservations about taking up arms for the country in time of war. Macintosh refused to swear allegiance without limiting his obligation to bear arms, and therefore is denied the right of naturalization. The same decision was made in the case of Miss Marie Averill Bland. Both she and Macintosh are Canadians and both saw wartime service in France.

Justice Howard Sutherland, who wrote the majority opinion, held that the cases properly came within the principle laid down in the case of Rosika Schwimmer, pacifist leader, who was denied citizenship on virtually the same grounds. He discussed the broad omnipotent war power granted congress by the Constitution, saying: "From its very nature, the war power, when necessity calls for its exercise, tolerates no qualifications or limitations unless found in the Constitution or in applicable principles of international law."

"The conscientious objector," Justice Sutherland added, "is relieved from the obligation to bear arms in obedience to no constitutional provision, expressed or implied; but because, and only because, it has accorded with the policy of congress thus to relieve him."

Chief Justice Hughes, joined by Justice Holmes, Brandeis and Stone, dissented from the majority opinion. TWO other decisions of the Supreme court during the week are of great interest. One reversed the judgment of the Circuit Court of Appeals sustaining the patent granted Dr. Irving Langmuir in 1925 on vacuum tubes used in radio and other speech-reproduction processes. The patent is owned by the General Electric company. It was attacked by the De Forest Radio company, which contended that unless the Langmuir patents were set aside General Electric would have a virtual monopoly of the radio tube now in common use.

In the second decision the powers of the federal trade commission to regulate advertising are restricted. The commission had ordered the Raladam company of Detroit to cease advertising an obesity remedy as "safe" unless accompanied by a statement that it should be taken under advice of a physician. The commission held it had the right to protect the public in this way, but the Detroit concern complained that the body was trying to censor advertising. In this contention it was upheld by the court.

PROF. AUGUST PICCARD, Swiss scientist, and his assistant, Charles Kipfer, established a new record by ascending 52,500 feet in a balloon. They are convinced they reached the stratosphere and that their observations will be of considerable value. They started from Augsburg, Bavaria, being hermetically sealed in an aluminum ball suspended from a large balloon; 18 hours later they landed on a glacier in the Alps of Austrian Tyrol. They nearly suffocated because their supply of oxygen ran short, and they suffered from hunger and thirst.

EVERY time President Hoover takes some cabinet member to the Rapidan camp for a week-end, further plans for reducing the government's overhead are concocted. First came the Army and Navy departments, and then it was the turn of the Post Office department. Postmaster General Walter Brown and his assistants were the guests and the "victims," and after the conference in the woods it was announced that a program had been adopted that would save $38,000,000 in the present fiscal year and that would produce many economies next year. However, it was emphatically stated that efficiency would be increased instead of diminished and that there would be no decrease in personnel.

The statement indicated that the department has felt the depression. It was estimated that due to business conditions revenues to the department this year would be $58,000,000 below the original estimates.

SECRETARY OF AGRICULTURE Hyde seems to be forestalling these Rapidan camp operations by planning considerable economies in his department of expenditures, though this is difficult without curtailing important services. He will be aided during the year by the termination of two emergency items—drought relief and highway construction. These totaled $160,000,000, providing aid for stricken farmers and jobs for the unemployed.

Drought loans will be collected from farmers next fall, when their crops are harvested. States which have borrowed from the $80,000,000 emergency highway fund will repay the money over a five-year period through deductions from their regular shares of federal aid.

After deducting extension service and land grant college funds, between $40,000,000 and $50,000,000 remains for the department's actual expenses.

THIS year's Memorial day address by President Hoover was delivered in the memorial park at Valley Forge, Pennsylvania, where George Washington and his ragged troops spent a terrible winter 133 years ago, and where more than 3,000 of those patriots are buried. The exercises of the day were impressive. Two thousand troops acted as escort to President and Mrs. Hoover and a battery from Phoenixville fired the salute. In his address Mr. Hoover reviewed his past policies in international matters and outlined his plans for the future, especially concerning the reduction of armaments.

The night preceding this, the President was the guest of the Union League club of Philadelphia at a banquet where he was presented with an oil portrait of himself.

Miss Mary Anderson

EXPERTS from many lands were present when the international labor conference opened in Geneva, but the United States was not represented. Secretary of Labor Donak appointed Miss Mary Anderson, chief of the woman's bureau, as the American delegate and she sailed May 12, with the special hope that the conference might adopt an agreement banning night work by women. But just after Miss Anderson reached Europe Mr. Doak sent her a cable instructing her to stay away from Geneva and giving her other missions for the department.

Making his action public, the labor secretary merely said the State department had deemed it "wholly inadvisable" to have any one from the United States government at Geneva, either in official or unofficial capacity.

MRS. HARRY PAYNE WHITE, ney's memorial typifying the heroism of the men who went down with the Titanic in order that women and children might be saved was unveiled on the banks of the Potomac in Washington in the presence of President and Mrs. Hoover, and many other prominent persons. Secretary of State Stimson presided at the ceremony. The statue is the contribution of more than 20,000 American women.

MICHELE SCHIRRU, an Italian born naturalized citizen of the United States, was executed by a firing squad in Rome after being convicted of plotting to kill Mussolini and of other activities against Fascism. Schirru admitted his guilt, but said his plans had been abandoned and he was about to return to America when arrested.

INVESTIGATION of the building material industry, especially those phases of it involved in the letting of contracts for government buildings, has been begun by the federal trade commission. It is believed that the inquiry will throw a lot of light on the long existing fight between the Indiana limestone men and the granite and marble men of New England. Such, at least, is the hope of Senator Henrik Shipstead of Minnesota, who introduced the resolution calling for the investigation.

The trade commission, announcing that preliminary work already had been started, said: "In this inquiry the commission will investigate and report facts relating to the letting of contracts for the construction of government buildings, particularly with a view of determining whether or not there are or have been any price fixing or other agreements, understandings or combinations of interests among individuals, partnerships, or corporations engaged in the production, manufacture or sale of building materials with respect to the prices or other terms at or under which such materials will be furnished contractors or bidders for such construction work."

Senator Shipstead said he introduced the resolution because of complaints that such collusion between the purveyors of building materials did exist and because of further complaints, seemingly aimed at the handling of contracts by the government itself, that specifications for buildings were so framed that they unfairly limited the sources from which materials could come.

The limestone-granite-marble controversy falls in the latter category. The charges are that Indiana's advocates have been too influential and have somehow or other put "Indiana limestone" into the specifications for too many government buildings.

DIRECTORS of the American Society for the Control of Cancer have given out a report asking hospitals and universities to co-operate in the organization of special cancer institutes, services and clinics throughout the United States. This co-ordinated effort, the report states, offers a hope of making more effective the present attempts "to reduce the frightful mortality from this disease."

The report says cancer took more than 100,000 lives in this country in 1929, being exceeded only by heart disease as a principal cause of death.

Queen Helena

EXILE from Rumania and expulsion from the royal family of that country is the fate arranged for Queen Helena, the estranged wife of King Carol. According to Patria, the official organ of the Zaranist party in Bucharest, a decree has been drafted for submission to the new parliament confirming Helen's exclusion and declaring that she is no longer entitled to the rights and honors accorded to royalty. Parliament is expected to adopt the measure as soon as it assembles, and Helena will leave the country permanently soon thereafter, terminating her uncertain marital status of more than two years. Observance of the queen's saint day last Thursday was forbidden in an order issued by War Minister Stepanescu and authorized by Premier Jorga.

Helene divorced Carol while he was in exile in 1928 with Magda Lupescu. When he made a dramatic flying return to Bucharest last year she spurned his overtures toward a reconciliation and steadfastly refused to be crowned with him.

REFORM and retrenchment in the army of Japan have been decided upon by War Minister Gen. Jiro Minami, Chief of Staff Gen. Hanji Kanaya and Gen. Nobuyoshi Muto, inspector general of military education. The army personnel will be reduced by 25,000 and the savings will be devoted to making the army the best equipped in the world.

The people had hoped that the money would go toward lightening their tax burdens; but the war minister explains that only $4,000,000 a year will be saved through the readjustments planned, and this amount, while hardly noticeable in any tax reduction program, will greatly aid the nation in placing the army on a level with that of Soviet Russia and other countries which maintain effectively equipped forces.

SPAIN'S new Republican government is far from being stabilized yet. Its troubles, both external and internal, continue to cause some uneasiness. According to the authorities in Andalusia, martial law which was proclaimed there several weeks ago may have to be continued indefinitely because of the turbulence of the Communists. Also, martial law has been reinstated in Elda, Valencia, where there was a violent revolt last December. The army, now under command of Don Francisco Aguilera, the new captain general, is kept in readiness to suppress any uprising anywhere, of either Communists or royalists. Elections in Catalonia resulted in complete victory for Colonel Francisco Macia's party.

The other day the Republican government issued a decree guaranteeing absolute freedom of worship to all religions. The pope regarded this as a clear violation of the concordat still in existence between Spain and the Vatican, and he sent a formal protest to Madrid after a conference with Cardinal Segura, the expelled primate of Spain.

THROUGH its chairman, J. Weston Allen, the national crime commission makes a report asking all states to pass a uniform law regulating their information, ownership records and registration to check the growing evil of automobile thefts and the use of stolen cars by criminals.

The committee also recommends the enactment by congress of the bill which makes criminal the transportation in interstate or foreign commerce of property stolen or taken feloniously by fraud or with the intent to steal or purloin. The bill passed the house of representatives but did not reach the senate during the last session of congress.

HAVING changed his mind about appealing from his conviction and sentence for bribery, Albert B. Fall, former secretary of the Interior, has asked the Supreme Court of the United States to reverse the decision of the District Court of Appeals. His brief attacks the validity of the indictment and the admission of certain evidence.

MY "MAID" IS AN ELECTRIC RANGE and she cooked this dinner for 4¢

THE ELECTRIC RANGE is just like having a maid at practically no additional cost. And this "maid" doesn't eat anything; she never complains, nor asks for a raise. She cooks food perfectly for about 1c a meal per person. And the joy of entertaining depends so much upon having this helper in the kitchen.

The electric range cooks food automatically. You place an entire meal in the oven—in the morning if you like. At 4 o'clock when you are miles away the Electric Timer turns the electricity on and starts the meal cooking. A Thermostat keeps the oven heat just right. At 6 o'clock the Timer turns the current off. If you're late getting home, the insulated oven keeps the food hot.

And electric cooking is as clean as sunshine. Platform cooking elements are faster—as fast as you'd want them. The electric range itself costs no more than any other good range.

Come into our office or a dealer's store and see the new electric range. Then select the model you prefer. Special terms will make it easy.

NATIONAL AFFAIRS

By Frank L. Litschert

The propagandist are at it again. Announcement is made of another nation-wide campaign to create sentiment for getting Uncle Sam in the League Court. The announcement comes from New York in the shape of a statement from Philip C. Nash, director of the League of Nations association. One of the purposes of the campaign, according to newspaper stories, will be to secure petitions which are to be sent to Washington in an effort to flood the senate into believing that there is a great demand throughout the nation, from the rank and file of the people for American entrance into the League Court. It is stated that the drive will be made in an effort to get the League Court issue settled in the senate by Feb. 1, 1932. No reason is given for fixing this date, but it is evident of course that the internationalists do not want the issue to go into the next campaign. For in spite of their efforts to propagandize the senate into believing the people are demanding the League Court, they know full well that if the issue should get into the campaign the internationalists would get a decisive beating as they have on previous occasions.

One significant newspaper statement credits Mr. Nash with declaring that as soon as Uncle Sam gets in the World Court another drive will be started to get him in the League of Nations. This ought to be interesting information for those Americans who seem to believe that we could get into the League Court without involving ourselves in the league. The fact is that internationalists are fanatical in their devotion to their doctrine and will stop at nothing, if given free reign, short of involving the United States thoroughly in European and world troubles.

In the meantime it is interesting to note an editorial in a recent issue of the London Chronicle, an influential English newspaper which sets out that continuing in the League of Nations will be the ruination of Great Britain. It is a fact that anti-League sentiment has been growing steadily in Great Britain during the past few years, as the English begin to see that they would be better off if they paid less attention to European jealousies and more to their own well being. The Chronicle editorial says in part: "The truth concerning the League of Nations has been hidden from the people of this country (England) for years by a conspiracy of bluffs and hypocrisy working upon the susceptibilities of decent trusting people."

Summing up the situation in Europe today the London paper continues:

"Geneva says nothing and does nothing because it has become a branch of the French foreign office.

"It is 13 years since the end of the war and 12 since the foundation of the League of Nations. What is Europe's condition at the end of that period?

"1. Italy, bellicose, suspicious and aggressive, is increasing and strengthening her army and navy.

"2. Germany is apprehensive of French domination and is determined to become the master of central Europe again.

"3. Yugoslavia, backed by France, is increasing her army in barely-disguised hostility toward Italy.

"4. Poland, supported by France, is maintaining a swollen, powerful army, menacing Germany and her smaller neighbors.

"5. The Balkan states are restive in mutual hostility, in the grip of France and fear.

"6. Austria-Hungary, dismembered by the treaty of Versailles, is hostile to her neighbors and stifled by France and her allies."

Commenting on England's duty, this British editorial says:

"The Daily Express affirms and reaffirms that the League has become an instrument of war, with Geneva the meeting place of international intrigue.

"Britain must turn from Europe. Her colonies and young expanding domains offer a heritage of opportunity such as no nation has possessed in history."

The American people do not want to become entangled in the European mess and the senate should realize this and doubtless will. Our law-making bodies will have enough to do in looking after affairs at home for the next year or two, without involving the country in European politics.

The simple inventions of yesterday were as great then as the intricate ones of today. Europe today is developing scientific methods of destruction and defense as never before in the world's history and with one end in view—war.

TODAY'S LUNCHEON

Imagination is the creation of a possible lie. But lies come under various classifications depending on the location and climate conditions. This and the expansion of the idea was very entertainingly and efficiently discussed by Dr. Sherman of San Francisco and that's no lie.

Newspapers are the disseminators of publicity and other fabrications but never barefaced lies. Their information comes from the public and is devoured by the public with more or less credulity. Why not use the same forceful propaganda for

The annual picnic will be held this Wednesday at the home of Mr. and Mrs. J. J. Pardee. All members and their families are invited. Supper will be served at 6:30.

GUILD STRAWBERRY-LAWN PARTY IS GREAT SUCCESS

The spacious lawn and grounds surrounding the home of Mrs. S. N. Hedegard proved an ideal setting for the strawberry garden party held there Friday afternoon by the Summer group of the Congregational Guild. Tables were set in the shade of the varied fruit trees and the attractive summer house seated other groups.

The porch facing the guests served as a stage from which an entertaining program was rendered throughout the afternoon.

Little six-year-old Junior Santos, junior artist of KQW and son of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Santos, sang two groups of songs that everyone enjoyed.

Solo numbers by the following were also greatly enjoyed: Mrs. M. H. Farnham, with Mrs. Ray Wood accompanist; Miss Marjorie McCray of Hollister with Mrs. David Sanders at the piano, and Mrs. J. W. Tuck, accompanied by Mrs. William Trigwell.

Telephone Operator Is Radio Amateur

Far places have a fascination for Miss Eleree Hardin of Jacksonville, Fla. As a long distance telephone operator, she is in contact by day with places near and far. As a "ham," or amateur, radio operator, her free time is spent in conversations with other wireless enthusiasts, some of whom she reaches over great distances. A true fan, Miss Hardin designed and constructed most of the equipment shown in this picture.

Lanphear and Lyman Bergtold, gave several selections, and George Lanphear a group of solos. Those present at the time greatly enjoyed hearing this group of young singers from our neighboring city.

Emily and Lois Bohnett, daughters of Mr. and Mrs. Calvin Bohnett, danced a minuet in costume, for which Mrs. Farnham played, as she also did for the songs sung by Junior Santos.

Mrs. H. C. Smith gave several readings.

The weather was ideal for an out-of-door event and the hostesses were the recipients of many expressions of pleasure.
